

For more than 80 years, Purolator Facet, Inc. has developed and manufactured advanced filtration products for the aerospace industry. Today, as one of the leading global filter manufacturing companies, we continue to exceed the requirements of our aerospace customers around the world.

Purolator's filter, elements, indicators and switch assemblies are used in the various fuel, hydraulic, lube oil and air systems on most aircraft and engine platforms. Every product is developed by our highly skilled and experienced team of design engineers using state of the art engineering development and testing tools.

From design to production, Purolator filtration products are manufactured to exceed our customer's specifications and are vigorously tested to guarantee we meet those requirements.

Being a global supplier to most Original Equipment Manufacturers (OEM's), Purolator also develops and maintains various FAA-PMA Approvals for products to support aftermarket sales through our authorized, worldwide distribution network. All of these aftermarket products whether OEM or FAA approved are developed in house using the same tools and experience utilized on our various OEM programs.

Purolator Facet, Inc. maintains in-house FAA Designated Engineering Representative (DER) to oversee and witness the development of each FAA-PMA Approved product and our FAA Designated Manufacturers Inspection Representatives make sure products being delivered meet all FAA requirements prior to installation.

For Quality, Purolator's quality system is approved by most Original Equipment Manufacturers and is FAA Approved. Purolator is AS9100:2004, ISO 9001:2008 approved and we maintain FAA Repair Station X5UR953X.
